Cooper Creek Partners North America Long Short Equity UCITS Fund 2019 Review

The Cooper Creek Partners North America Long Short Equity UCITS Fund returned 1.63% for the month of February (IE00BG08P444) giving a net return since launch on 12th November 2018 of 1.31%.

Investment Objective & Strategy

The Cooper Creek Partners North America Long Short Equity UCITS Fund seeks to generate attractive absolute returns, non-correlated to equity market performance by investing in a portfolio of high conviction ideas with a low net exposure.

Cooper Creek employs a catalyst-driven, value-oriented approach to investing in small/mid-cap, under-the-radar and/or out-of-favor North American companies with the potential for transformational change. There is a significant focus on generating alpha from single name investments on both the long and short sides of the portfolio.

Monthly Commentary

In February, Cooper Creek Partners North America Long Short Equity UCITS Fund generated a +1.63% return, while averaging -0.3% net exposure. Over this period, the longs returned +4.0% and the shorts returned -2.37%. The Fund generated 220 basis points of alpha on the short side and relatively flat alpha on the long side.

On the long side, we had three positions each contribute over 70 basis points to performance, while only one short detracted more than 30 basis points. Moreover, in an upward trending market, we had five shorts contribute over 20 basis points each to performance. While we have turned over several names in the long portfolio as securities approach our price targets and have also been quicker to cover shorts upon the occurrence of catalysts, we have repopulated both sides of the portfolio with new ideas with catalysts in the first half of 2019. We enter March, running 8.0% net long, with a fully invested portfolio consisting of 92.0% long exposure and 84.0% short exposure. We also have a strong backlog of potential future ideas and early stage ideas. We continue to see positive market receptivity to catalysts on both the long and the short side, which makes us optimistic about our portfolio going forward.
