Tosca Micro Cap UCITS Fund

UK Micro Cap

March 2022

Performance Returns

The Tosca Micro Cap UCITS Fund returned -1.80% in March (GBP Institutional share class).

Investment Objective & Strategy

The Tosca Micro Cap UCITS Fund is a fundamental, value-orientated strategy, applied to the opportunity rich UK micro cap segment. The fund will invest primarily in "micro cap" companies with a market capitalisation of up to £250m that are listed in the UK, and which are or are expected to become constituents of the FTSE Small Cap or the FTSE AIM All Share Index. The Fund is managed by Matt Siebert who, together with Daniel Cane and Jamie Taylor, support Martin Hughes in the management of the Toscafund mid-cap strategy. As such, the Fund represents an extension of the same investment philosophy employed in the award winning Tosca Opportunity and Tosca Mid Cap funds. The Fund targets an annualised return in excess of 15% (net of fees).

Manager Commentary

Market turbulence continued in the month and while sentiment has started to improve, we are starting to see an impact on company newsflow, both positive and negative.

Looking at the key impacts on NAV in March, at first blush they appear to be split on sector lines. Our top 3 losers were in TMT and top 3 winners in resources. While our weighting had been reduced in the former sector, we were still hit by underperformance driven by disappointing near term newsflow.

The largest negative attribution came from Essensys (-1.3%). Extended sales cycles in the US and the administration of one UK client meant that this flexible office space software provider will miss FY22 revenue guidance. While clearly frustrating, this does not change the long term story of huge demand for flex office solutions that have access to time and cost efficient workforce management software embedded in them. Importantly the pipeline continues to expand at pace and ultimately we believe that Essensys will convert major customers such as Tishman Speyer, JLL, Cushman and Industrious. The US alone has 10bn sq. ft. of potential flexible office space to sell into. Trading at <1x sales for a pure SaaS solution materially undervalues a business that is still expected to grow at a 20%+ CAGR through to 2024.

The second largest hit came from Music Magpie (-1%). This is a re-commerce business that reconditions consumer electronics before selling/renting into the B2C market. While FY21 was in line with expectations, consumer trends mean that lower margin, higher ASP handsets (think iPhone 12 vs 8) are more popular in the second hand market, with the net effect of driving down gross margins. Competition too has intensified, with some commentators citing the emergence of PE-backed, Back Market. The reality is that Back Market is a platform and not a retailer. We fully expect to see MMAG join this platform and use it as another route to market. As a consequence, forecasts that have simply extrapolated near trends on sales and margins out into future years miss the point that recycling/upcycling is a growing trend and MMAG is well positioned to capitalise on this. A current valuation of <8x PE is too low as a result.

More positively, Kistos (+0.9%), Phoenix Copper (+0.4%) & Tungsten West (+0.5%) all benefited from continued strength in commodity pricing as well as scarcity value. Recent results for the former two companies highlight strong balance sheets, strong resource statements and a plethora of growth options. This is all on top of wider positive moves in pricing.

Looking forward, recent market dislocation has thrown up a number of opportunities. Near term pressures may well linger, but where we believe these are transitory, there is scope to capitalize. Tech has been out of vogue for a while but some of the valuations are starting to look compelling. Government spend, energy, security, productivity solutions and inflation trends all have positive tailwinds and these are areas where we expect to mine good long term opportunities.

We thank you for your ongoing support
