Cooper Creek Partners North America Long Short Equity UCITS Fund 2019 Review

The Cooper Creek Partners North America Long Short Equity UCITS Fund returned -7.6% for the month of May (IE00BG08P444) giving a net 2019 return of 3.2% and a net return since launch on 12th November 2018 of -1.9%.

Investment Objective & Strategy

The Cooper Creek Partners North America Long Short Equity UCITS Fund seeks to generate attractive absolute returns, non-correlated to equity market performance by investing in a portfolio of high conviction ideas with a low net exposure.

Cooper Creek employs a catalyst-driven, value-oriented approach to investing in small/mid-cap, under-the-radar and/or out-of-favor North American companies with the potential for transformational change. There is a significant focus on generating alpha from single name investments on both the long and short sides of the portfolio.

Monthly Commentary

In May, Cooper Creek Partners North America Long Short Equity UCITS Fund generated a -7.6% return, while averaging 3.0% net exposure. Over this period, the longs returned -15.5% and the shorts returned 7.9%. For the year, the fund generated a +3.2% return, while averaging 2.6% net exposure, consisting of 610 basis points of alpha generation.

During May, we had five longs materially detract from performance. Three had negative fundamental events, resulting in decreasing one position, exiting one and maintaining the third. Caleres (CAL) is the one material loser whose position size we increased during May in anticipation of upcoming catalysts during the summer. We had eight short positions contribute over 40 basis points each to performance during May. For the year, seven long positions each contributed over 120 basis points, each of which we have exited. We also had eight short positions each contribute over 50 basis points to performance, all of which remain in the portfolio today. We enter June, running -5.0% net short, with 78.9% long exposure and 83.9% short exposure. We are actively trading around the portfolio, quicker to take profits and more disciplined in exiting mistakes. This approach has resulted in year-to-date portfolio turnover of 53% on a name-basis, consisting of 61.5% turnover on the long side and 47.6% turnover on the short side.
