September 2021

Performance Returns

The Purple Global Adaptive Equity UCITS Fund returned -2.66% for the month (GBP A Share class). This gives the fund a net return since launch on 18 February 2016 of +10% and a net return since end December 2020 of +4.7%.

Investment Objective & Strategy

The Montlake Purple Global Adaptive Equity fund is our flagship fund which is designed to adapt to market conditions by knowing when to take risks and when to preserve capital. It is a product for use by clients who are willing or need to take equity risk but would benefit from the portfolios proactive systematic risk management capability which looks to preserve capital when market conditions deteriorate.

The fund is a global equity fund with a risk management overlay. It holds a basket of equities from the US, European, UK and Japanese markets. These equities are selected based on fundamental data and are chosen on a quality bias.

Each geographical area is treated as a separate portfolio for risk management purposes, with positions being equally weighted to avoid one position dominating performance. It is in our specialised risk system ARES™, however, where this product differentiates itself and seeks to add value. This risk system directs the overall level of market exposure that the fund takes in each geographical region, with the ability to be completely hedged across all markets when required. It is this system of allowing the fund to take on market risk in rallies and hedging during downturns that gives the fund its edge.

We expect the fund to outperform over the longer term, particularly over a full market cycle.

Monthly Commentary

Following five solid months of returns, equity markets took a tumble in September. Investor concern over increasing inflation expectations, coupled with supply chain issues and energy price increases, resulted in an equity market sell off. The fixed income market also had a rough time in September. Localised issues, such as concerns over debt default from the Chinese property company Evergrande, and the fuel crisis in the UK where many petrol stations had to close due to lack of petrol also had an impact on markets.

The fund fell over 2.6% in September as a result of the increased beta position especially in the US in September. In addition, the UK stock book also had a difficult month. This was due to the weakness in sterling keeping the FTSE 100 index of large cap stocks fairly insulated against the worst of the drawdown (a weaker sterling is positive for companies with revenues generated outside the UK). The UK stock book has a mainly small/mid-cap bias which had less benefit from a weaker sterling. The Japanese stock book outperformed the index, while the US and EU were in-line. Overall, the fund outperformed global equities, which is expected behaviour on the fund on the downside.
